“... darkness gathers around us ...

Help us ...

that we may win the Battle for Peace”

Mary, Queen Of Peace,

Mediatrice for all mankind,
Intercede for us who stumbling blindly
Search for the concord of peace
In the terrifying strength of missiles and nuclear holocausts.
Destroy the obstacles which blur our vision, Guide our footsteps through the labyrinth of deceit and hate.
Teach us to see that peace will be obtained only
With prayer and Christ-like living
And that "the final victory in the battle for peace will rest with God."

principle of all our education"

Some of the most important principles of Christianity and Catholicism are taught us by priests who have helped in solving many of the problems that face the students of today, as well as explaining the basic truths of our religion. The additional influence of Father Abel, Father Garrity, Father Wessel, Father Whelan, Father Ziegler, Father Sullivan, Father Fromm, Father Bayer and Father Becherer help to make religion a vital part of our lives. One religion period a week is devoted to instruction by a particular priest. Some of the "visiting priests" and the assistants at St. Vincent parish teach for several periods each week. The work and sacrifices of all the priests is appreciated by the students who have profited by their help, their example, and by their prayers.

Advanced math courses such as Algebra II and trigonometry, which emphasize practical application, aim at preparing the student for additional study in college or for jobs in this field. These more complicated subjects require the full concentration and attention of the students. Supplementing class instruction, visual aids are helpful in demonstrating new mathematical concepts. In addition to regular assignments, the most competent students devote some of their spare time to studying for the Ohio Scholarship Tests and the Annual Math Contest. The first gives awards to those who excel, while the other offers money.

How to graph a circle on the polar co-ordinate plane is the problem confronting Carol Koneff and Jim Masturzo as John Stith tries explaining solution.

Typing class learns rhythm and speed

Seniors occupy room 304 during the 11:00 and 2:30 periods as Sister M. Julianne, O.P., energetically improves their bookkeeping knowledge. Study guides, unit tests, projects, and homework are the measures used to accomplish this. Guided by Mr. Frank Gingo, the seniors and juniors develop really fast and accurate typing with the help of rhythm records, timed writings, and very frequent drills in class. These capabilities will be an asset for the students both in personal and in business life.

Typewriter keys march to music to develop the rhythm and co-ordination of Gerry Chitty, Ronnie Andrews, Jeanne Robert, Jackie Whitlinger, and Mary Beth Estadt.

Team teaching and guidance periods

Two new programs have been inaugurated this year: guidance periods, and team teaching for American history. During homeroom period on Fridays, discussions, reports, and skits are methods used to study character development and personality. This study is designed to encourage co-operation and leadership in the school. Team teaching is a valuable addition to the juniors' American history class. Divided into groups for discussion, and gathered in the auditorium for lectures, students find that history is an interesting and vital subject.

Mass study highlights sophomore year

In 302, George Reuscher, William Rochford, Larry Rohr, William Spalding, and John Porzio discuss symbols of the Mass. Might those letters be for the prayer—"May the Mass be my life and may my life be a Mass"?

"It's Your Personality" is the theme of 10th grade group guidance. Certainly at no time is it more appropriate to evaluate developing a Christian maturity as Christ's life is unfolded in detail in studying religion. "Learning Christ" could well be the theme for the St. V. student throughout school; his entire life determines his "final mark."

Vincentian presents "Glenda Glamour"

Throughout the year clubs sponsor assemblies to enlighten the student body. Here Sue Staudt, Margie Blake, Pat Lawless, Margaret Kempel, Pat Cassidy, Ryan LaHurd, and Larry Dubravetz portray a "Vincentian day."

During the course of the school year each club is given an opportunity to "show off" talents and accomplishments. Through these assemblies, members of the club endeavor to explain the functioning of their organization and to exhibit their work. This can be done through enjoyable skits or by speakers. Thus, students can realize some "extra" activities.

This year at St. Vincent's there are three different home economics classes. The Home Ec. II class is made up of advanced students. The two Home Ec. I classes are alternating semesters in the skills of cooking and sewing. Above, Mrs. Octopus and her family of three look on as Sue Ryan, Pauline Swartz and Carol Koneff get a preview of Barb Ball's new spring outfit which she is completing in Home Ec. I. For the first time this year the girls from Home Ec. II, under the supervision of Sr. Josette, made their Christmas presents. All the classes prepared meals.

Industrial Arts classes challenge boys

Junior and senior boys are demonstrating the exacting work demanded of them in mechanical drawing class. After developing skills by using such instruments as the straightedge, scale, T square, compass, curves, and the protractor, many of them are planning one day to become architects, engineers, and industrial designers. Since these and many other types of expert draftsmen are in great demand today, they are perfecting their skills under the competent guidance of Sister Aquinas, mechanical drawing instructor. At year's end they will be prepared for the further pursuit of these important and much-coveted positions.

Fred Martone shows Mike Brandt and Jim Manning how he has learned to make further use of compass and other instruments in mechanical drawing.

Experiments, projects spark interest

Biology is the science of living things; chemistry, the science of the composition of substances and the changes they undergo. As students enter into the two specialized sciences taught at St. V., they learn about the mysteries of the living and non-living matter existing around them and playing such an important part in their everyday lives.

Sophomores Carol Coscia, Tom Shumaker, Jeanne Fanelly, and John Porzio prepare to observe the structure of a carnation in their microscopes. These students are enjoying using the new microscopes this year.

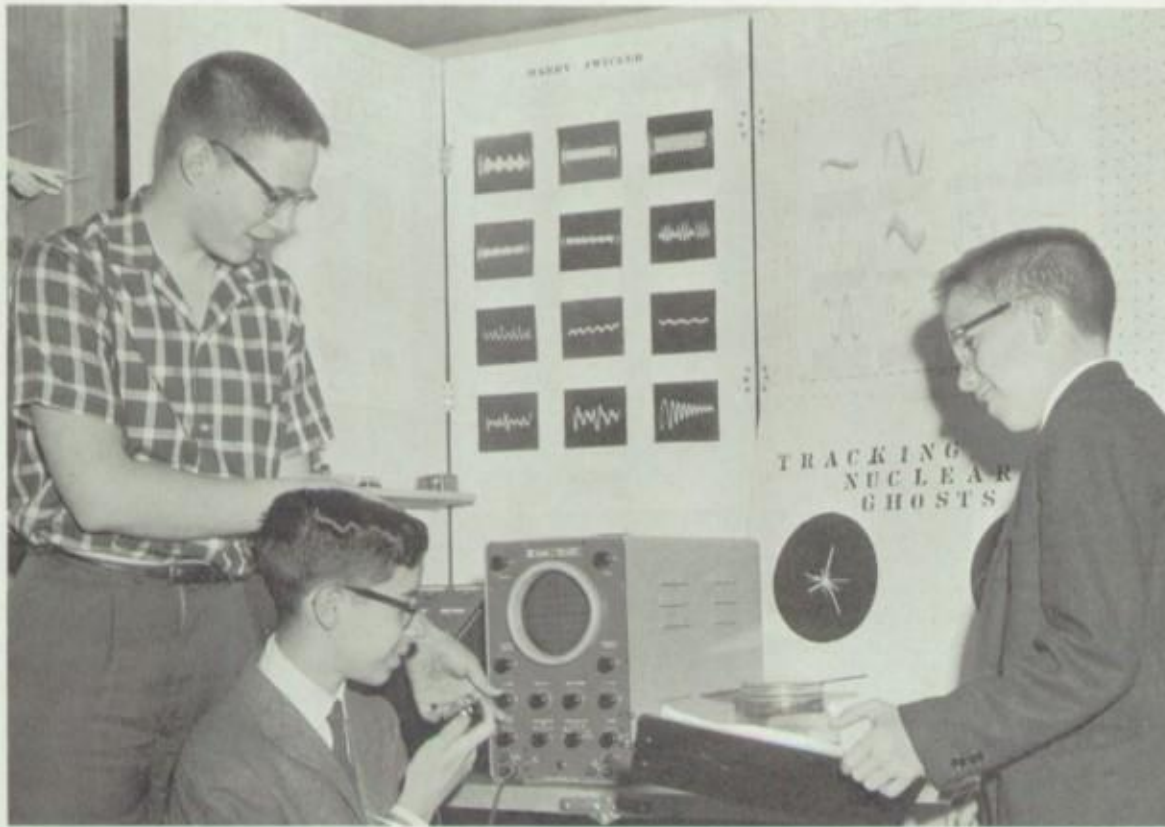

Experiments such as this one are not rare in Sr. Denise's chemistry classes. Here senior Ellen Laatsch records data as it is given to her by junior classmates Bob Watson and Bob Schlosser.

demonstrating practical application

For his project on sound waves Harry Zwicker received state superior rating at the Ohio Science Fair. Here he demonstrates it for Douglas Falcon, first in the Ohio Scholarship Science Test, and Larry Smith, whose project was rated superior.

Why does it rain? What is snow? General science provides for each student a chance to learn the answers to these and other simple yet confusing questions. Science is becoming more important each year and will continue to play a major role in our lifetime. Good background in the subject will be a valuable acquisition. Under the supervision of Sr. Imelda, the students of general science, by studying and by experiments, are preparing for a better informed life.

Experimenting with real objects is always of interest to everyone and can be especially interesting to new freshmen. Students in Sr. Imelda's general science class—Terry Caston, Denny Cookro, Karen Ciborek, and Greg Grucella compare kindling temperatures of different materials.

Taking time out from their duties as class officers, juniors Tim Enright, Ed Lambe, Bernadette Denholm, Margaret Hoffmann, and Grace Di Caudo study diligently not only to keep up their grades, which make them eligible for office, but also to score high on National Merit Tests.

After waiting impatiently for two long years, the class of '63 eagerly assumes the duties and privileges of upperclassmen. Most important of these is the participation and cooperation in the leadership of the school. This activity is an important preparation for senior year and all those that follow. Sponsoring the Christmas dance and the biggest event of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom, are among the more enjoyable duties encountered during the course of the year. Receiving class rings is the best part of being a junior. Besides highlighting the year, this ceremony develops greater class unity, strengthens pride in the school, and loyalty to it and to all of its members.

To study German II, it is necessary to review the basic elements of the language. John Lavery points out the fundamentals of the alphabet to Ingrid Wagner, Richard Dembosky, Ingeborg Falticska, and Robert Schlosser.

for knowledge of modern languages

With more and better means of transportation and communication making countries in the four corners of the earth our neighbors, it is of vital importance to be able to understand and appreciate other peoples and their cultures. The study of a modern language is the first step in becoming acquainted with the citizens of other lands. Being offered at St. Vincent, German, Russian, and French not only teach the students how to express themselves in new concepts, but also help to broaden their outlook on life. Russian, taught for the first time, enriches the curriculum with Eastern view.

Listening intently to the explanation of Mr. Quirk, Tom Lavery and Bernadette Denholm find that Russian is only as hard as you care to make it.

Practice makes perfect—art and song

Although work prevails throughout the day in most classrooms, the curriculum supports some gayer courses too. Musicians and artists receive an opportunity to shine both for themselves and the school. The chorus must prepare programs for the Modern Music Masters induction, the Christmas assembly, the spring musical, and many other activities. The art classes display their paintings, ceramics, and holiday greeting cards.

Studying the profile of an impish clown, Joanna Prats, are artists Denise Martin and Jean Joliet.

First among the most important engagements for the chorus is providing the entertainment for the induction ceremonies of new members into the Modern Music Masters Society. Prayers, cheers are common at St. V.

"Please"

and

"Thank You"

Enthusiasm, the keynote during the football season, resulted in both an undefeated team and an unbeaten cheering section. All season long, an avid section of students, parents, and alumni roared out its approval or dismay during the many tense moments of play.

Then at the end of each game, the Irish grid-ders returned victoriously to the nuns' chapel to thank God for their good fortune. This practice coupled with hard work, long hours of practice, and plenty of wishing gave the Fighting Irish one of their finest seasons.

Half the excitement of a football game comes from the cheering section. Roaring students, and even priests and parents challenge the "other side" in noise and spirit. Judging by the expressions on these happy faces, anyone could guess that the Fighting Irish have scored again.

N. H. S. and M. M. M. denote excellence

Rich Crano and other National Honor Society officers Diane Wysocki, Sue Staudt, and Jim Masturzo, assemble the Honor Roll in the showcase.

The National Honor Society stands for excellence. Students are chosen from the junior and senior classes for their outstanding achievements in class work and extra curricular activities. The N. H. S. faculty advisor composes a list of those students who have attained a "B" average and distributes a copy to all the members of the faculty for their recommendations. Sponsoring the annual Friendship Day, ushering for Open House, and creating an atmosphere of scholarship are some of the duties of an N.H.S. member.

As they attend the annual Open House for their seventh time, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fitz are shown the new stage curtain in the redecorated auditorium. Members of the N. H. S. (such as Cliff Johnson) were on hand to direct parents to the various rooms and to point out the new additions and changes that appeared in the school this year.

and leadership throughout the school

Modern Music Masters officers Toni Cygan, Mary Jane George, Dick Querry, Lynn Sullivan, and Janet Johnson study the society's charter, just renewed.

Members of the Modern Music Masters are always chosen on their scholarship, leadership, and character. Before becoming members of the society, the aspirants must serve an apprenticeship and learn the rules and constitution. A test must be taken and passed before the induction ceremony. This event is an enjoyable social affair for the aspirants and their parents. A medley of various types of songs is presented by the combined chorus. Each inductee, accompanied by a sponsor, receives membership card and pin.

Top Notchers for each month of this school year were picked by the entire Modern Music Masters Society. President Richard Querry congratulates the first three of the season: Larry Jenkins, Toni Cygan, and Kathy Williams. All Top Notchers are picked for their club service and contributions.

Boosters "blast out" school spirit

This year's wonderful school spirit displayed by the students of St. Vincent's was backed by the Vincenteen Booster Club. This group is made up of different committees, each headed by two chairmen. These special committees sponsored the cheer rallies, hung signs before basketball and football games, put on record hops, and made favors for hospitals. The club also sponsored car caravans and color days during the football and basketball seasons. The money made from their bake sales and record hops will go for school improvements needed.

As Sue Kane fixes Barb Ball's hat, Barb Baughman asks Kathy Williams, "What's the box for?" Everyone else knows it's an elf's car, used in a rally.

Charity, knowledge — served by clubs

The Catholic Students Mission Crusade is a growing organization at St. Vincent this year. CSMC'ers actively participate in many projects that benefit the school both materially and spiritually. They help the missionaries in foreign countries by making cord rosaries and Sacred Heart badges. Old prayer books are put back into usable condition and sent to underdeveloped English-speaking countries. At Christmas time the club made angel favors for the area hospitals. At school they circulate mission literature in the library.

Looking over the books that are to be sent to Liberia this year are C.S.M.C. officers: Kathy Palmer, Kathy Madden, Toni Cygan, and Sandy Scott.

Students from the chemistry and physics classes at St. Vincent's join the Chem-Phy Club to enrich their knowledge and their appreciation of science. Periodical tours and field trips to the greater Akron industrial plants help the members to have a better understanding of the place of science in industry. At their monthly meetings, there is usually a guest speaker to explain new and different phases of science. These aspects of science, along with textbooks and teaching, help St. V. students to realize how vital is the knowledge and use of science.

All Chem-Phy officers: Linda Miller, Cliff Johnson, and Bob Meeker listen intently as their guest speaker, Dr. Scott, explains the use of polymers.

Yearbook, paper not created in a day!

Working to meet their final deadline are copy staff members Frank Svetlik, Martha Friedl, Bernadette Denholm, James Kutsko, Kathy Wojtowicz, Jan Volkmor, and Rebecca Rich. What would we do without 2:30?

Behind all the happy memories pictured in the Shamrock is a lot of hard work on the part of the layout, the copy, and the business staffs. Headed by Sister Julianne, the layout staff meets at least three times a week and is responsible for planning the pictures in the yearbook. Copy staff members, directed by Sister Michael, write all identifications, headlines, and body copy. Part of this group meets daily during the last period to work on copy assignments, and the whole group meets once a week on Wednesday to give progress reports. Last, but by no means least, is the business staff headed by Sister Marianne. They work chiefly in the fall, securing patrons to finance the yearbook. The awards that the Shamrock has received are very gratifying rewards for all staff members. In previous years, it has been awarded All-American and Medalist.

Members of the planning staff Joanna Prats, Bob Donatelli, Janet Capotosto, Larry Carroll, Rosemarie Tretto, Sandra Porzio, Diana Salvo, Toni Cygan, Carol Koneff, John Hoffmann, Mary Roach, and Karl Bremer work to co-ordinate the material in the yearbook. Bob Donatelli and Larry Carroll donated their 9:30 study period to work on the layouts during five months of the year.

Awards repay hard work of journalists

Awards and honors won by the Vincentian are due in large part to the hard work of its editors Barbara Pogorzelski, Joan Martin, Pat Denholm, Penny Dirrig, Tim Souers, and Ray Shoenfelt.

The last period of the day finds the Vincentian editors and staff members working in 301 on the current issue of the paper. The Vincentian, which is published once a month from September through May was rated All-American and Medalist this year. Journalism students and staff members often attend writing conventions and workshops at different universities from which they bring awards and honors to the school. Sister Martin, journalism teacher and faculty advisor to the paper, co-ordinates the work of these two groups by assigning stories to the more capable journalism students. This not only gives them experience but also aids the paper's staff in compiling material for stories. Every April the Vincentian staff takes a rest while the journalism class edits the paper in preparation for assuming the job the next year.

Faithful Vincentian staffers Gail Karper, Janice Karg, Dick Dembosky, Carol Riley, Anne Marie Destro, Peggy Pittenger, Barbara Ball, Lynn Wilder, Jeanne Culver, Kathy O'Connor and Phil Kaufmann, "live it up" at their Christmas meeting.

Sodalists go "To Jesus through Mary"

Faced with the problem of carrying out more projects on a larger scale than before, the Sodality officers pooled their resources and came up with what seemed to be the solution—the small unit technique. By being grouped into cells of six or seven, the membership became more active, and participation was easier. More time was needed, so the time of meetings was changed.

The drive for Christmas baskets for the needy, a project sponsored by the Sodality, is supervised here by Rosemarie May, secretary; Frank Svetlik, prefect; and Pat Rennie, vice-prefect.

Activities sponsored by the Sodality range from the Howdy Hop to the May Crowning. With officers Frank Svetlik, Pat Rennie, and Rosemarie May heading the group—and workers such as Joan Martin and Diana Maynard providing the impetus, the St. V. Sodality of Our Lady soared to one of its most successful years since its institution in 1954. The Howdy Hop, as the opening dance of St. V's social season, set the group on a firm financial basis. Visits by the officers and members to the Apostolic Congress and organizational workshops helped to promote unity and success in later activities. The Christmas baskets were distributed by Bill Price and non-Sodalists John Swenson and John Bennett.

Time to think—with annual retreat

Although scholastic excellence is one of the main objectives at St. Vincent, a strong devotion to the spiritual is our reason for being. Throughout the year this devotion is manifested, but never so greatly as during the annual retreat. Occupying a day and a half, retreat marks the end of a semester and the renewal of spiritual and scholastic interests. The schedule includes Mass, conferences, rosary, and benediction.

Father Zeigler, assistant at St. Peter's, was the boys' retreat master this year. Here he stresses a point during one of the conferences. He had the help of knowing some boys from class.

Father Bayer's first conference on emotional maturity was of especial importance to students. He explained that the main requirements for emotional maturity are a sense of responsibility, the ability to face reality, and the ability to control our emotional reactions. In each of the following five conferences, he defined and increased our knowledge of these points. Father gave examples of the importance of having emotional maturity to benefit us in our everyday experiences.

Opening of retreat was celebrated by attending Mass and receiving Holy Communion. Father Bayer, retreat master, is an assistant at St. Paul's parish, and uses part of his day off to teach here in 301.

Fieldhouse glitters with stardust when

Nervously tackling her first day as teacher of the king's harem and children, Anna (Joann Kirstein) tries to overcome her feeling of loneliness in a strange land by teaching her new pupils to sing "Getting to Know You."

Results of two months of practicing and numerous rehearsals were evident when the students of St. Vincent presented Rodgers and Hammerstein's popular musical The King and I to capacity crowds at three different performances. The Oriental music was provided by members of the school band under the direction of Mr. Lewis, and the elaborate costumes were the result of some fast-stitching by home ec. students and others who donated their time to help under the guidance of Sister Josette. The Art Department, directed by Sister Vincentia, designed and constructed the realistic scenery and props that served to transport the audience successfully to the kingdom of Siam.

With Captain Orton (Bill Schnee) at the wheel, Louis (Jim Fiedler) points out lights of Bangkok to his mother.

amateurs give professional King and I

Lady Thiang, the king's head wife (Paula George), welcomes Anna to the court of Siam. The king's other wives are also pleased with their new teacher but are somewhat surprised by her strange remarks and Western ideas.

The Drama Club, a rather recent addition to the extracurricular activities, contributed members to the cast. The club is under the direction of Mr. Terrence Horrigan this year. Aside from working on the musical each year, the members take part in several skits before the student body and in an annual Drama Festival.

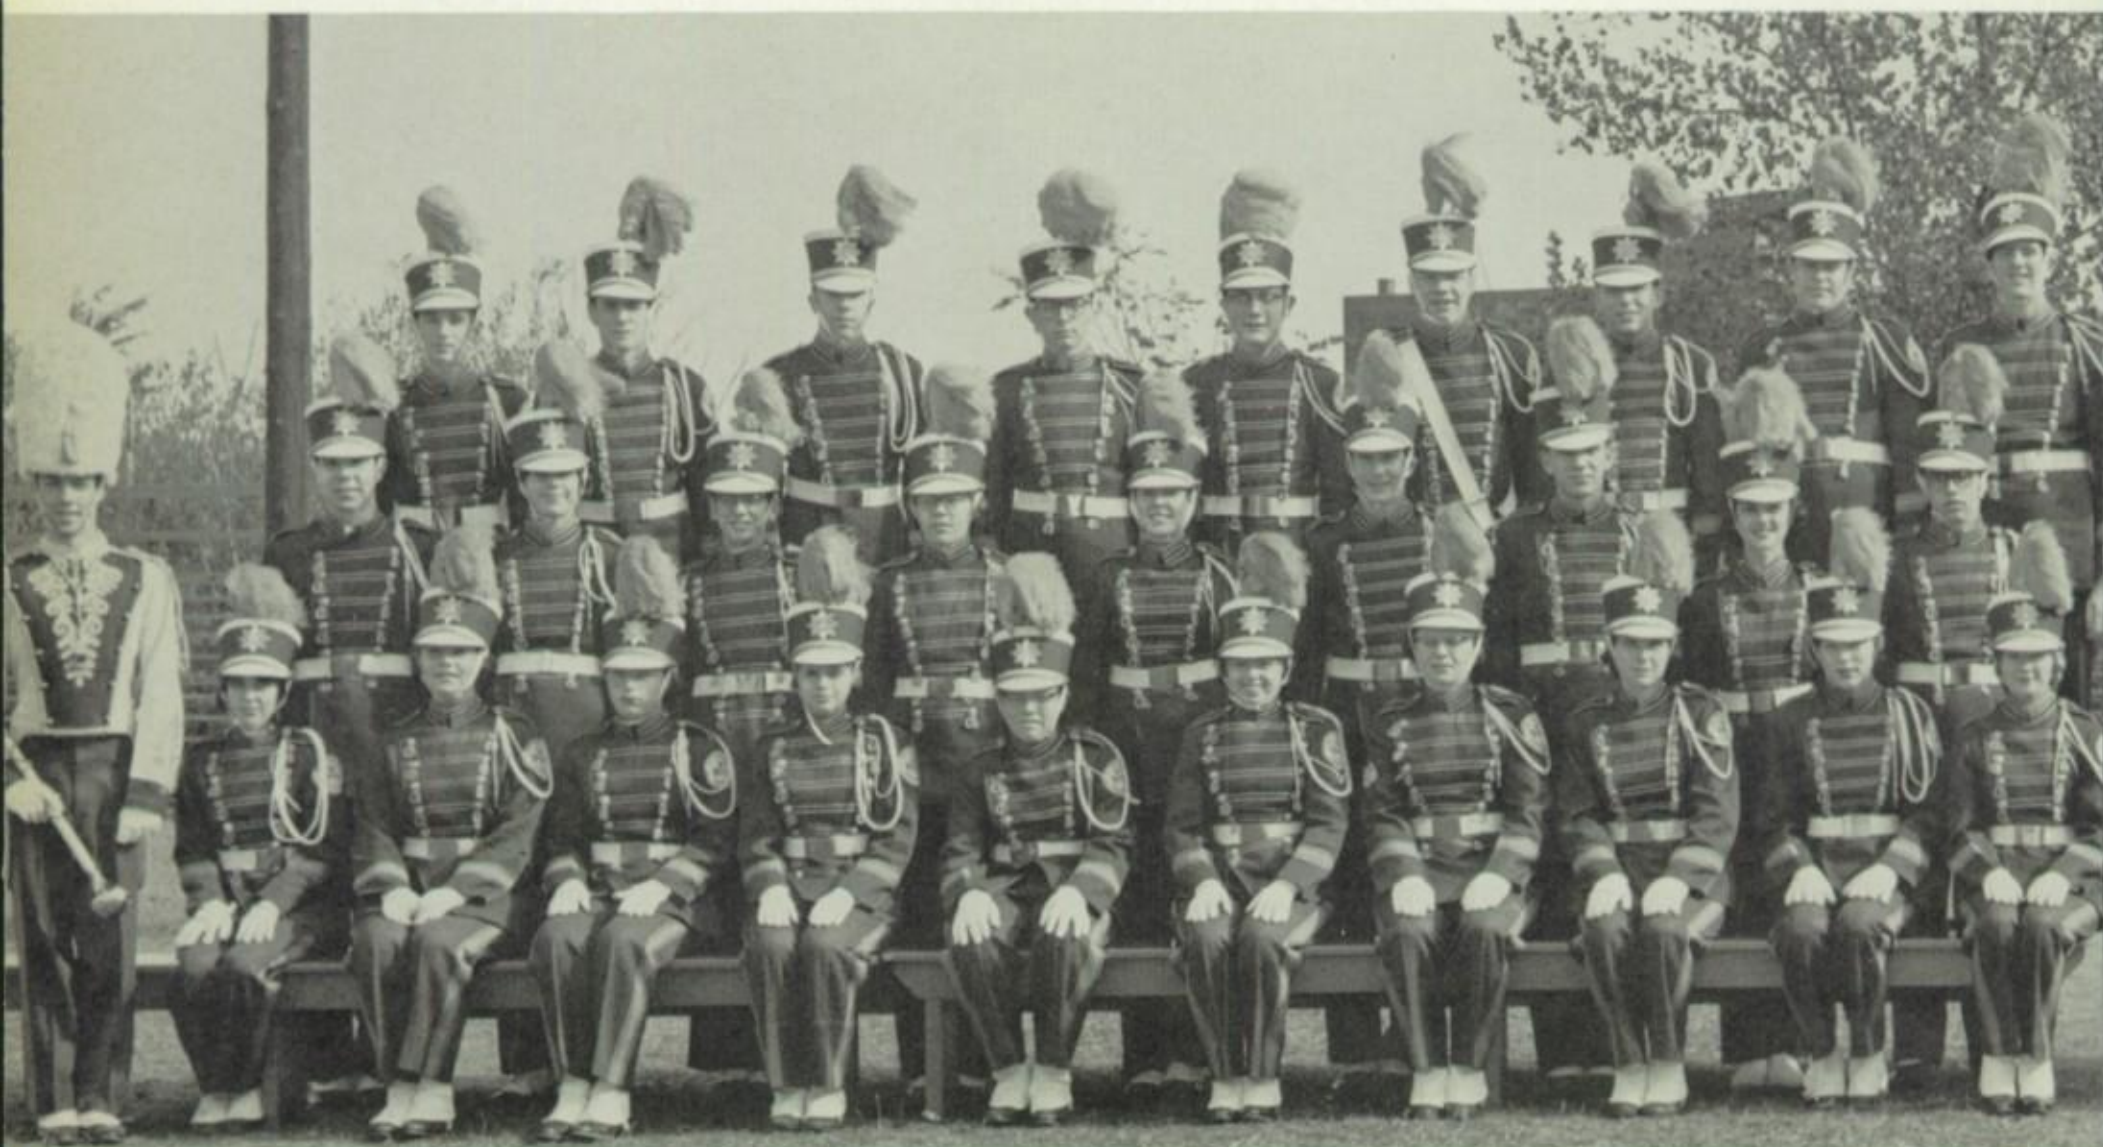

During her stay in Siam, Anna and the king (Hank Durand) have become good friends. Wishing to honor her for her help, he agrees to learn to dance the polka.

Lady Thiang and Anna kneel at the foot of their dying "Lord and Master" who gives his last command to his heir, the Prince (John Klein), who is guarded by the Prime Minister (Mike Cyrill).

They are a main source of St. V. pride.

Pride of St. V. High is the prize-winning Irish Varsity band. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Lewis and new Drum-Major, John Giffin, colorful and entertaining half-time shows were proudly presented. As leaders of the St. Patrick's Day Parade in New York City, the Irish have marched as the official band for the Grand-Marshal and received highest honors, after they marched. This year the band president, John Earley, and captain, Larry Jenkins, share the responsibility of helping Mr. Lewis with a truly fine band. An old idea of having line sergeants was revived again this season, and rank stripes were given to Larry Jenkins, Karen Frey, James Witwer, John Swenson, David Polsinelli, Don Ross, Kathy Chapman, and Dennis Foerst. Besides accompanying "The Irish" to every home and away football games, the band was given the privilege of playing for the newly-formed Akron Pros, and provided most of the cheering section for them. Our band not only plays for every football game, but also adds to the excitement of basketball games and cheer rallies. Practicing faithfully in summer and each day after school, the bandsmen have been able to show off their precision. But let us also remember the majorettes. They, too, gave up their summers so as to put on the well-rehearsed and entertaining shows expected of them. As they accompany the band wherever they play, the seven "High-Steppers" add much of the color and zest to the performances. Alternating three types of attractive uniforms, Captain Pat Moneypenny and the other smartly dressed "Shamrockettes" present their picturesque routines.

Blasting to six shutouts in ten games, St. Vincent marched to their second consecutive inter-city title and the sixth undefeated season in the history of the school. Led by masterful Larry Mackey, who dazzled his way to city, district, and statewide honors, the Irish won five out of five in the ICC and established complete dominance in the young league. Boasting the strongest defense in the district coupled to the most potent offense in the inter-city, the Irish gave up only 37 points while scoring 241 this season. The 9-0-1 season posted by the green and white is the best since 1954, and the first undefeated season since '58. Team, rah!

Coach Wentz lauded his team, one of the best he's had. Resounding his praise, the green and white's cheerleaders "told" the team's glories on the gridiron. With the varsity cheerleaders on the side of the field and the jay-vee spirit raisers in the stands, they stirred the fans into a frenzy during each game. The noise subsided only momentarily after every home game to be resumed in a few minutes before the convent at the traditional entrance of the players through the aisle of cheerleaders into the chapel. The gay holiday atmosphere that prevailed after every game can be attributed largely to the superlative efforts of these twelve girls.

Seniors lead "Green Monster" — again

St. Vincent's "Green Monster" football team reaped local, district, and statewide honors. Head coach Eddie Wentz, dean of area coaches and in his 38th year at St. Vincent, was runnerup in the district "Coach of the Year" award, and named coach of the "North Ohio All Star" team. Senior Larry Mackey, who set a new rushing record by gaining over 1400 yards and a new scoring record of 108 points, was named as co-captain of the All-City team, and third string halfback on the All-State team. End Jim Barr was also named to the All-Ohio squad on the second string. Bob Meeker, a three year letterman, received city and district recognition and was given honorable mention on All-Ohio team. Jim Dolensky repeated as Inter-City center and gained a second string berth on the All-City team. Rich Hurley took third string All-City honors and was presented the school's Horrigan Memorial Award. Jim Casey, Tim Souers, Bill McShaffrey, John Hoffman, Vince Lobello, John Melert, Robert Jackson, Bob Fowler rounded our "A" team!

Jerry Rothermel

Coach Endress's "Two Platoon System"

Speed, skill, untiring desire and an "all state" offense and defense gave this year's fighting Irish an unbeatable team. Led by a group of talented seniors, Saint Vincent ran up an eleven-game winning streak before losing to "City Series" champion Central by one point. Head coach Ned Endress built a team that St. V. will long be proud of. The 14-4 season record speaks for itself as Coach Endress built a strong, passing, shooting offense around not just the starting five, but all twelve players so that they went 101 miles on 100 miles of ability. It was this outstanding capacity that made the Irish undisputed parochial champs and winners of the Inter-City Conference. I.C.C. sharers were Falls and Canton Lincoln.

Ed Lambe watches as Bob Meeker reaches for the ball over the hands of two Buchtel players. Play like this gave the Irish their first victory.

With a "two platoon," well balanced scoring attack, the Irish hoopsters had not one but many standouts while caging the finest record in many St. V. seasons. The contributions of seniors were not small: the sharpshooting of Chuck Teter, added to the floor generalship of Bob Meeker, constituted a one-two punch which opponents found hard to put down. In addition, the aggressive board work of Jerry Wilson, Jim Barr, and Bob Jackson, along with the driving of Mike Kouri, would seem to indicate that underclassmen played a minor role. However, junior Ed Lambe and sophomore Pete Burg exhibited brilliant defensive play and fine offensive potential. Denny Barr and Jerry Rothermel added their talents to round out a fine, aggressive Irish team. The greatest asset of the Irish was their "never say die" attitude.

The efforts of Central's Bruce Moore proved futile as Chuck Teter drives for a basket.

Irish achieve enviable cage season

Irish hardcourtmen upheld the fine athletic tradition of the school by racking up a terrific 14-4 season record, as the Irish copped the inter-city crown. During the tournament games the Saints lost a heart breaking second-round game to Garfield in the last 23 seconds as a Ram teammate sank two crucial foul shots. The Irish gained the second round by dumping Coventry 85-52. Bob Meeker, Pete Burg, Jerry Wilson, and Chuck Teter gained berths as city stars.

St. V. pivot Bob Meeker recovers the ball in a scramble with East's Louis Dagget as St. V's Mike Kouri and Orientals' Rod Dingle and Chuck Rolte look on calculatingly.

Girls also get into the world of sports at St. V. Every Tuesday night senior and junior girls display their skill in an exciting game of bowling. This year Diane DeJacimo obtained the high average and series, 131 and 452 respectively, while Lucille Riccilli bowled the high game of 188. Lucille's team copped first place and had the high team game series of 2229 with games of 560, 568, and 601. From October to April the first place spot changed hands many times as the competition grew tougher and tougher. However, throughout the season all concerned did their best to secure the title of bowling champs of St. Vincent High.

Bowling president Diane DeJacimo shows teammates the style which enabled her to bowl the high average.

Dick Querry and Karl Bremer were trying all the time on the court fighting both opponents and inexperience.

Although tennis at St. V. got off to a bad start, the Irish did manage third place in the inter-city tournament. Taken seriously for the first time last year, tennis moved up to the number one position among the Irish spring sports. Coached by Mr. Terry Horri-gan, the Irish netters faced the problems of inexperience and finding proper facilities for practice. Met by obstacle after ob-stacle, the green and white's netters had little success. However, with Dick Querry and Dave Tsaloff leading the way, St. Vin-cent managed a 3-2 victory over Akron Cen-tral and ended with a 1-8 seasonal record.

Featuring an all-veteran golf team, St. V. got back into the swing of things in 1961. The team, consisting of Bob Meeker, Dennis Sauter, Bill Marshall, and captain Joseph Palmer, brought the Irish a very successful 10-2 season. Climaxing this, St. Vincent placed second in "the Greater Akron Golf Tournament" and ninth in the district meet. Breezing past their first four opponents, the Irish finally met stiff competition against North and Coventry. An easy victory past Kenmore set the stage for the first Irish defeat at the hands of a rugged Canton Central Catholic. St. V.'s golfers lost only one more, of their final four games, to the city champions, Buchtel High School.

Welcome, Freshies! St. V. says "Hello!"

Frosh make new acquaintances; sophomores, juniors, and seniors greet old friends; all dance at "The Howdy Hop."

It is October 11, 1961, and lights in the Social Center dim as things "begin to swing" at St. Vincent's. First and foremost, the ice is broken for the freshmen getting their first taste of high school social life at "The Howdy Hop." As an annual event, the dance is sponsored by the Sodality and is always greeted with enthusiasm. An added attraction this year was a five-piece combo which furnished the evening music.

Paper shamrocks are signed by students on Friendship Day, sponsored by National Honor Society.

Students haunt "The Witches' Whirl"

Margaret Gentile and Tony Leiby as "The Great Pumpkin and Company" invade the Social Center to dance and to enjoy themselves at the "Witches' Whirl," sponsored by the art class.

See Senior Tom Lavery look on entranced as Wanda Witch (junior, Annette La Voie) foretells future events by reading the palm of another senior, Frieda Foster. Wanda seems to be enjoying herself.

Fall is a time for friendship and St. V. provides ample opportunity to make new friends and renew old acquaintances on Friendship Day, a traditional event sponsored yearly by the National Honor Society. On that day green paper shamrocks are sold on which students obtain each other's signatures. Finally, in the wake of Friendship Day and "The Howdy Hop," fall winds up its schemes to toss new students into the spirit of things with the annual Hallowe'en hop. Sponsored and quite appropriately decorated in the scariest of themes, by the art class, this year's "Witches' Whirl" ranks among the best.

Royalty reigns at "Football Fantasy"

As the football season drew to a close the undefeated Mighty Irish took time out to choose St. Vincent's 1961 Homecoming Queen and Court. Amid smiles of pleasure and heartfelt applause, Sally Horning was crowned Queen of the '61 Inter-City Conference Champs. While couples whirled to the music of Al Day and his orchestra, Queen Sally and her Court reigned over the "Football Fantasy," sponsored annually by the senior class. The perfect end to a perfect season, this pre-Thanksgiving dance was a night long to be remembered by both the students and alumni who attended.

John Melert bestows the crown of the Irish on Queen Sally Horning.

"Frosty Frolic" provides "cool" evening

Decorations reminiscent of the "gay nineties" transferred the social center into a setting for an old-fashioned Christmas. This year's dance, annually sponsored by the junior class was known as the "Frosty Frolic." A larger number of alumni attended the dance as a result of receiving personal invitations from the junior class. Helping to create the mood by providing the music were Merle Easterday's "Stardusters." Enchanted by the music and the festive decorations, the happy couples danced on into the night. The charming decorations from the large beautifully trimmed tree in the corner, to the tables adorned with tiny trees covered with angel hair, cast a magical spell over all who attended. The joyous mood of the season soon affected all those present.

Merriment and mirth prevail during

Bright expressions on the faces of Susie Staudt and Tim Souers express feelings of excitement as the diners review the fun they had transforming the fieldhouse into a dazzling ballroom, other preparations for "the night."

Crystal chandeliers reflected all the pomp of prom night as gowns swished to melodies of Al Day's orchestra when the annual Junior-Senior Prom commenced in the three-year-old fieldhouse. Upperclassmen danced from 8:30 to 11:30 in the "Ballroom" adorned with crystals, roses, palms, linen, and ribbons. Although the knowledge of more entertainment afterwards existed for all, an aura of nostalgia prevailed in the hearts of the upperclassmen. That their high school careers were so quickly drawing to a close caused sadness, but who could stay sad the night of the prom? It should be recalled as the "grandest night."

memorable night of prom festivities

Curiosity and admiration captivate Sandy Kimball and Joseph Humphrey as other prom couples arrive.

Amidst the elegance of flowers and palms, Barb Baughman, Bob Meeker, Carolynn DeOrio, and Denny Sauter respond to the mood provided by Al Day and his orchestra. The musical selections provided variety for all tastes.

and Courage”*

Armed with the torch of knowledge,
We stand prepared at the threshold;
Aided by strength of character and spiritual courage
To face the conflicts of life.

Rings have special meanings for each one who receives them. They remind the wearer that he should set example for lower classes to follow. They also stand for maturity and the high standards set at Saint Vincent. Msgr. Conry officiated at the solemn ceremony for the juniors. Invitations were extended to sophomores who witnessed the receiving of the class rings at Church. After the students left in procession, a general excitement seemed to pervade the air.

"Leaders Inc." tells tale of seniors

High school's last year is a time of hope but also one of indecision. So many activities to be participated in "for the last time," so many important decisions to make in preparation for the future, so short a time in which to accomplish everything desired! The choice of a college is perhaps the greatest problem to be faced. Only after careful consideration can one find a college suitable to him. The battery of tests necessary in order to be accepted is hard but is well worth the reward received.

The future is serious business! Here class officers John Stith, Diana Salvo, Rich Crano, and Roberta Lawrence look at college through catalogues.

Shakespeare lives again for seniors

English classes design projects to give them a better understanding of the time in English literature that they are studying. The results of many projects are well worth the time and effort put into them. Literary projects, such as term papers, are done by the seniors in order to broaden their knowledge and prepare them for college. Shakespeare's Macbeth was the main play taken this year, and the theme of both papers and projects.

Interested seniors Joe Fahey, Jan Capotosto, and Alana Balzano examine the figures characterizing Macbeth and Lady Macbeth from the Elizabethan tragedy.

Senior girls cheer undefeated Irish

The loyal Irish fans sat in rain and freezing weather to show their support and loyalty for their team and their school. With rhythmic cheers and rousing school songs the student body spurred their team on to victory after victory, and kept the mighty Green and White at the top of the winning column. The tension and excitement of the games kept the fans in a constant uproar, and when a winning touchdown was needed, the chanting of "Go! Go! Go!" rang in the crisp night air until the stands shook.

Memories, resolutions mark graduation

Graduation has arrived! Oh how we have waited for this day! Months and years of preparation have gone into this one act. The last days of high school are numbered and are slowly crossed off on our calendars. Then when the time actually comes we get sad and nostalgic at the thought of leaving the activities and friends that have become dear to us through our four years of high school. As we pray for help and courage to fulfill our own vocation, we thank God for His help and grace.

Msgr. Conry, Fr. Retter, and Fr. Zepp bid final farewells to a graduate as she receives her diploma.

We thank some of our V.I.P.'s

Preparing tasty and nourishing food for the students is an all-day job for our cafeteria staff: Mrs. Gunn, Mrs. Lenahan, Mrs. Schaff, and Mrs. Sullivan. After we are served, they must clean and prepare the next day's meals.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We are grateful to Mr. Conrad Hilton for the use of his "America On Its Knees" in the development of our theme; the United Nations for the picture of the UN Building; the Rand McNally Company for the world map; our sponsors, business and personal patrons, without whom this book would be impossible; to our photographers: Mr. Gene Baldensperger, Mr. Mel Sutter, Mr. John Fitzgerald, Mr. Don Freeman, Mr. Chester Rasinski.

Democracy personified with our U.N.

"Will the Berlin Wall fall?" In a dramatic new auditorium setting the problems of the world are "solved" as just one more facet of the popular new team teaching effort. UN members are: Dick Dembosky, Jim Kutsko, John Swenson, Nancy Workman, Barb McCurdy, Pat Souers, Dick Schmitz, Terry Smith, and Frank Svetlik. On a smaller scale, "town meetings" gave additional practice in democracy.

"AMERICA . . . now knows it can . . . win the battle for peace."
